§ 32-54. Compensation of trustees.

- (a) If the terms of the trust do not specify the trustee's compensation, the trustee is entitled to receive from the assets of the trust compensation that is reasonable under the circumstances.
- (b) All of the following factors shall be considered in determining reasonableness of compensation:
  - (1) The degree of difficulty and novelty of the tasks required of the trustee.
  - (2) The responsibilities and risks involved.
  - (3) The amount and character of the trust assets.
  - (4) The skill, experience, expertise, and facilities of the trustee.
  - (5) The quality of the trustee's performance.
  - (6) Comparable charges for similar services.
  - (7) Time devoted to administering the trust.
  - (8) Time constraints imposed upon the trustee in administering the trust.
  - (9) Nature and costs of services delegated to others by the trustee.
  - (10) Where more than one trustee is serving, the reasonableness of the total fees paid to all trustees.
  - (11) Other factors which the trustee or the clerk of superior court deems to be relevant. (2004-139, s. 2.)
